

Hole in One

Drunk? Speeding? Blind? Nope, nope and nope. The truth behind this picture is better than any of those common excuses, you can bet yer britches on that one. And speaking of bets....here we go...

A couple of gentlemen are out playin' golf. They make a bet. Someone loses. The winner can't stick around. He hops in his car to go spend the hundred bucks he just "earned." As he drives past the fairway, he can't help but sound off a victory honk. Beep beep.

The loser is so mad at being whooped that he grabs his five-iron and whacks the ball toward his ex-buddy's car. "Take that, Tiger Woods!" he yells. Ahh, if he'd only played as well before the bet. Y'see, the ball went right through the side window, shattered the glass, and startled the driver long enough to send him right through a stop sign and into a ditch. Hey, that's what friends are for (or is it "fore") ...

